

West Agrees To Russia's Date For Big Four Conference

January 25
Selected To Open Talks

By John M. Hightower
Washington (AP)—The Western powers yesterday accepted Russia's date of Jan. 25 for opening the Big Four foreign ministers conference at Berlin and at the same time sought to avert any new delay which might arise from argument over an agenda.

Similar notes were delivered by Ambassador Charles F. Bohlen and British and French envoys to the Soviet foreign office early yesterday afternoon, Moscow time.

The American note expressed regret that the Soviet government had not accepted the opening date of Jan. 4 which the United States, Britain and France had proposed. But it went on to say that the United States agrees to the date of Jan. 25 suggested in the Russian note of Dec. 26.

The United States also made two other principal points in the message to Moscow—as did the British and French governments in their notes:

1. It was agreed as suggested by Russia that the site of the Berlin conference and other arrangements should be discussed by representatives of the high commissioners of the four governments in Germany. But the United States reiterated its stand that the United Nations should be consulted by the Allied Control Authority, previously suggested for this conference by the Western powers, is a suitable one for the parley.

2. The United States has already stated what questions should be considered at the Big Four sessions and does not believe this question of an agenda should be further discussed now since the foreign ministers will soon take it up at their conference.

The Western powers have in fact asserted that the business of the meeting will be to negotiate the unification of Germany and to complete an Austrian peace treaty.

Russia has served notice that Foreign Minister Molotov will talk about world tensions generally, including the German problem, and will insist upon an early Big Five meeting, including Red China. The Soviets have repeatedly objected to talking about Austria at the Berlin conference.

There is thus fertile ground for argument and delay if the Russians want to play it that way now. In proposing to omit further discussion of an agenda at the present time, the Western Allies aim to avoid this delay and to get the conference under way on the date now agreed.

Extortion Plot Nipped

Long Beach, Calif. (AP)—Police Chief William H. Dovey said yesterday a Pomona College student has admitted trying to extort $40,000 from four wealthy families, under threat of death, in an effort to finance his education.

The chief said Robert Wallace Moen, 23, has signed a statement acknowledging he wrote the letters demanding $10,000 from each family.

Chief Dovey said Moen implicated James Chambers, 23, of Long Beach, and that Chambers was hooked on opium of extortion. The chief said he will be questioned as a possible accomplice.

Intended victims of the plot, detectives said, received notes demanding the money and giving instructions for its delivery Wednesday night. One of them, acting as a decoy, dropped a dummy package from his car at a designated intersection in a residential area. Police arrested Moen when he came along a few minutes later, Chief Dovey said.

Chief Dovey quoted Moen as saying he left Des Moines, Iowa, 4½ years ago after living there eight years.

Wilkes-Barre Native Slain

Philadelphia (AP)—Police yesterday questioned and then released a number of men in an effort to track down the slayer of Mrs. Marian Sommerfield, 41, whose body was found on a North Philadelphia sidewalk with a dagger in the back.

The woman's body was discovered shortly before Thursday midnight by two passersby, Edward Rygalski and Joseph Mergimer, as they walked along Susquehanna Ave. two blocks west of N. Broad St.

Police said the woman, who was the daughter of Stanley and Mary Cymbolski of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was identified by her husband, Emil Sommerfield, who told authorities they had been married 14 years but separated three years ago. He is a brewery worker.

Drunk Causes $600 Damage To Parking Meters

Detroit, Mich. — Dearborn police were minus nine parking meters yesterday.

They discovered the loss when an alarmed citizen raced into a police station and yelled: "There's a man outdoors wrecking all the parking meters."

Officers rushed out; found nine meters with the tops broken off. Several were in front of the station.

Down the block police spotted Andrew Ellis, 30, getting ready to conquer his tenth meter. Ellis was jailed for "drunkenness and malicious destruction of property."

Damage to meters was estimated at $600.

World Greet New Year On Note Of Joy

By The Associated Press
The world welcomed the arrival of 1954 on a note of joy and hopefulness missing in recent New Year celebrations.

For Americans, it marked the first Jan. 1 in three years that fellow countrymen were not being shot at on a field of battle.

Police estimated that one million revelers crowded into Times Square to shout a rousing welcome to the New Year—five times as many as the previous year when the Korean War was still being fought.

The "night before" happiness spilled over into the afternoon as hundreds of thousands turned out for traditional New Year's Day bowl games.

Churches, as well as nightspots and football stadiums, also were filled.

And in Pasadena, an estimated crowd of 1,200,000 watched the 65th annual Tournament of Roses parade.

But Happy E. Newyear of Sleepy Eye, Minn., took Jan. 1 in stride. He turned down offers to appear on New York television shows and went to church instead.

Leaders in capitals around the world—Moscow included—sounded hopes for peace.

Farmer's 125 Timepieces Help Ring In New Year

Junction City, Ore. (AP)—John Wells had a clanging good time as the New Year came in.

Ordinarily his wife will allow the 67-year-old retired farmer to have only two clocks going. But what the heck, New Year's is only once a year, so he told him to go ahead and start them all New Year's Eve.

Wells began winding and setting the 125 clocks he has collected in the past four years. Midnight arrived in whirring, ringing, clanging, coo-cooing confusion.

Now Wells will wait for next New Year's, collecting more clocks in the meanwhile, of course, in pursuit of the hobby that started when he found a man who'd swap a clock for a lawnmower.

Mummers Parade In Philadelphia

Philadelphia (AP)—Plumed and polished in the brilliant fashion of their tradition, Philadelphia's mummers strutted and pranced along Broad St. yesterday to blare of brass and the piercing tinkle of string band music.

Hundreds of thousands of spectators, packed shoulder to shoulder on sidewalks along the 5-mile parade route, applauded the 7,500 marchers.

Editor Who Warned Readers Of New Year's Traffic Peril Loses Both Legs In Accident

Williamsport, (AP)—Editor Rebecca F. Cross wrote a New Year's Eve traffic safety editorial for her newspaper, the Lock Haven, Pa., Express. In it she asked:

"Who wants to start the New Year in a hospital or a morgue?" Then, in self-reply, she wrote:

"In spite of the strength of statistics no one need be one of these New Year accident victims."

But ironically, the 48-year-old editor lost both legs in an automobile accident Thursday night—and became one of the accident statistics about which she wrote.

Heated Session Of Congress Almost Certain

Washington, (AP)—Congress will reconvene Wednesday for what promised last night to be one of the hottest sessions in many a year.

With control of both chambers as well as administration prestige at stake in this November's elections, some Democrats were returning to Washington in a mood that could only be described as boiling mad.

They are aroused by Atty. Gen. Brownell's handling of the Harry Dexter White Communist spy case, the abortive move to subpoena former President Truman, and by New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's linking of Democrats with "diplomatic failure, military failure, death and tragedy."

They are embittered too by what they call a failure of the Eisenhower administration to consult with their leaders on vital foreign policy issues.

President Eisenhower has invited the Democratic leaders to the White House Tuesday for a preview of the foreign policy-defense sections of his State of the Union message, which he will read to Congress on Thursday, but Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) declared there is "no prior consultation on foreign policy."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) put it this way: "The administration simply announces its policy. If there is any consultation, it comes after the fact."

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) Foreign Relations Committee chairman, argued that the Eisenhower team is "doing as good a job as anyone can reasonably expect" in efforts at a bipartisan foreign policy and contended that the Democratic criticism was not "merited."

Despite the fact that many Democrats are angry, the Democratic leaders, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson and Rep. Rayburn, both of Texas, were reported feeling that no personal attacks should be made on Eisenhower.

Jan. 22 Critical Date In Future Of Korean Nation

Washington, (AP)—The New Year will be barely three weeks old when it brings a new crisis in Korea.

At midnight on Jan. 22 at least one—and perhaps two—long-smoldering questions may boil over.

The first is this: What happens to the 22,217 Communist and 349 United Nations war prisoners who have not returned to their homes? These include 21 Americans who have refused repatriation.

The second: Will South Korean President Syngman Rhee try to renew the war alone? He has blown hot and cold on his threat to do this, and shows signs of blowing hot again.

The whole question of Korea's future—supposed to be decided at a political conference not yet arranged—may hinge on what takes place on Jan. 22.

Bullet Misses 150 Worshipers

Detroit, (AP)—A congregation of 150 was joined in silent prayer at New Year's Eve midnight services in the Barry Baptist church when a bullet ripped through the roof and fell in the center aisle, between the pews of worshipers.

Rev. Lawrence Barry, offered a prayer of thanks that the slug had not harmed any member of the congregation.

Police said the bullet apparently had been fired into the air by a celebrator. It just dropped into the church.

Traffic Accidents Claim 127 Lives In First Half Of Long Holiday Period

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents by late last night had killed 127 persons in the nation celebrating the four-day New Year's holiday weekend—with two days still to go.

Other accidents brought the toll to 164. Fires killed 24 persons and 17 other accidental deaths were attributed to miscellaneous causes. Traffic deaths were recorded in 33 states with New York out in front with 13, followed by Michigan with 12 and California with 10.

A week ago, after approximately the same number of hours in the Christmas holiday period, the total fatalities had reached 249, of which 211 resulted from traffic, 22 from fires and 16 from miscellaneous causes.

The rate of 44 traffic deaths per hour was running slightly behind the 4.5 rate forecast by the National Safety Council before the weekend started.

The council had estimated that 360 Americans would die in traffic crashes during the period from 6 p. m. (local time) Thursday to midnight Sunday. However, it appeared that caution born of the tragic Christmas weekend when 523 died in traffic accidents was reflected in yesterday's comparatively low traffic rate.

Nine Killed In Pennsylvania Motor Accidents; Another Drowns While Ice Fishing

By The Associated Press

Nine traffic fatalities were reported in the state in the first 24 hours of the holiday with two other miscellaneous deaths listed, one a drowning and the other a heart attack victim on his way home from early church services.

Mrs. Margaret Vacula, 33, Swagerville, Pa., was killed by a hit-and-run driver early Friday.

Sen. McClellan Won't Return To Committee

By G. Milton Kelly

Washington, (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), who led the Democratic walkout from the Senate Investigations subcommittee last July, said yesterday "I do not anticipate returning to it."

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), has had no Democratic members since McClellan and Sens. Symington (D-Mo.) and Jackson (D-Wash.), resigned from it in a row with McCarthy.

There has been some quiet discussion among Democratic senators returning to Washington for the forthcoming session of Congress of possible maneuvers which might permit the three to return to the subcommittee. McClellan's statement that he does not desire to do so came as a surprise.

"I don't anticipate returning to it regardless of what is worked out," he said in a telephone interview from Little Rock, Ark. "I can't think of any combination of circumstances which would result in my return."

McClellan said the reason is that since leaving the McCarthy subcommittee he has been named to membership on the Senate Internal Security subcommittee headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.). This is a group created by the Senate specifically to investigate Communism in America.

Taylor Attends Harmony Parley

Hershey, (AP)—Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Republican state chairman, participated for the first time yesterday in GOP harmony conferences designed to avoid a gubernatorial primary fight this year.

Taylor, closely allied with U. S. Sen. James H. Duff, met with Gov. John S. Fine and G. Mason Owlett, Republican national committeeman, leaders of GOP forces at odds with Duff.

The state chairman declined comment, but Fine said:

"The meeting was called primarily to lay the groundwork for further expanded harmony meetings. No candidates were discussed."

Millions View Colorful Rose Tournay Parade

Pasadena, Calif. (AP)—Two international beauties—Miss France and Miss United States—and a magnificent floral display won the 65th annual Tournament of Roses yesterday for nearby Long Beach.

A crowd estimated by the police chief at 1,200,000 gasped and applauded in admiration during the two-hour procession of colorful floats. Other millions across the nation saw the spectacle on television.

A few thousand around the country, NBC estimated, saw the parade on color television sets at demonstrations arranged by manufacturers. The first colorcast of the tournament also could be seen on regular black and white receivers.

Police Issued 160 Tickets On Wednesday

Stroudsburg police caught five times as many parking violators Wednesday than on an "average day" during 1953, according to Burgess Hal H. Harris.

A total of 160 parking tickets were written Wednesday, Harris said. The drastic increase in tickets was due to an unannounced crackdown put into effect that morning by the burgess.

According to Burgess Harris the "daily meter count for the year 1953 showed that an average of only 32 cars per day were tagged by the two officers covering meters all over the borough."

In contrast to this, the burgess said, "one officer wrote a total of 124 tickets in eight hours on Wednesday."

"This officer was covering only Sixth and Seventh Sts.," Harris said. "The net effect is that one man wrote 15 and one-half tickets every hour for eight hours on a small portion of the metered areas while two men patrolling not only that area but all of Main St. also, had previously written only an average of four tickets per hour or 32 in one full day."

Another officer on duty Wednesday, the burgess said, wrote "36 tags on Main St. alone, working only from 3 p. m. to 6 p. m.—an average of 12 tickets for violations every hour."

The changes in policy inaugurated Wednesday, Dec. 30 were basically these:

Police were ordered not to turn the knobs on meters. Previously persons who parked were allowed to leave money in the meter, counting on the patrol officer to turn the knob up before writing a violation ticket.

Residents who found they had been given a parking ticket when they returned to their cars, found also that they could no longer pay 25 cents for the ticket.

From now on, according to the order issued by Burgess Harris, the "first ticket" would cost parkers 50 cents. In addition to this, new orders given to the police called for writing a new ticket for each car found to be in violation on the officer's return to the parking place.

Effect of the latter portion of the order was to pile two, three or sometimes four tickets on the handles of a few cars left for several hours in the same spot.

Most residents seemed confused by the change in policy Wednesday. The extent of the change had not been announced previously by either the burgess or police.

Principal complaints from motorists seemed to be slanted in this direction:

Last night Burgess Harris enlarged upon a previous statement that the policy had been changed "to correct a situation," apparently within the department.

The "situation" of which he had spoken previously, the burgess said, involved failure on the part of a few officers to patrol and properly tag meters within their assigned districts.

"This condition has existed for some time," Harris said last night. "It finally became obvious that some officers were not doing their duty."

"Therefore, it became necessary to work out a system whereby the department would become more efficient," the burgess continued.

"This step was taken not only in the interest of better police action and an improved system of revenue to the borough within the limits of the parking ordinance already existing, but also to insure fair treatment to all residents of the borough and of Monroe County."

"It is our belief that all persons who shop or live in Stroudsburg are entitled to, and must have, equal treatment within existing law," the burgess said.

An important part of the "new" policy was an order switching night shift police officers to day duty and vice versa.

Red Rebels Reinforced In Indochina

Hanoi, Indochina, (AP)—Strong rebel reinforcements are joining the Vietminh Iron Division in a menacing encirclement of Dien Bien Phu and a full scale assault may develop there in a few days, French military sources said yesterday.

Dien Bien Phu is the last big French stronghold in the Thai country of northwest Viet Nam and a guardian of mountain passes into the sister state of Laos.

Rebel units ringing the French-held Red River Delta presumably are contributing troops to swell the ranks of the Iron Division, No. 316, which the Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh has equipped with some of the best and heaviest weapons he receives from Communist China.

The French speculated that levies were made on Vietminh divisions west and north of Hanoi.

Eisenhower, Aides Work On Message

Augusta, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower and top advisers worked 4½ hours this New Year's Day on his State of the Union message and "quite a lot of progress" was reported.

The holiday conference in the President's office above the pro shop at the Augusta National Golf Club got started at 8 a. m. At the break for lunch, James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, told newsmen the message Eisenhower will deliver to Congress in person next Thursday was shaping up speedily.

The team of administration advisers assisting the President met again in the afternoon for more work on various sections of the document, but Eisenhower left for a round of golf.

The advisers worked on into the evening and scheduled another conference with the President this morning.

The team which flew here from Washington Thursday includes Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations; Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge; Sherman Adams, Eisenhower's top aide at the White House; and Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, head of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

Texan Hints Others Want To Come Home

By William C. Barnard

Seoul, Saturday (AP)—Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor, a lanky Texan who yesterday ended four months of voluntary exile in a pro-Red prisoner of war compound, told a news conference today the camp where 21 other Americans are still held should be searched for weapons and conditions there should be investigated.

He said it "was possible" that several of the men he left behind might follow his lead and ask for repatriation. And he hinted strongly that some are being coerced into staying with the Reds.

Batchelor, 22 from Kermit, Tex., also told reporters he was the leader of the balky 22 Americans in the "north camp." But later remarks indicated there were several factions in the camp and his leadership may have been shared.

Batchelor will be flown to Tokyo, the Army said. He will probably be processed at the Tokyo Army Hospital.

In Tokyo he will be reunited with his Japanese wife, whose pleading letters, Batchelor admitted, played a big part in his decision to reject the Communist creed he had once embraced.

When he met newsmen today Batchelor had changed from the blue Chinese uniform he wore at the exchange point yesterday to a U. S. Army uniform.

In answer to a question he declared he would recommend that the NNRC shake down the pro-Communist compound.

In the Communist prison camps in the north, Batchelor said, he was known as "a progressive that didn't squeak."

By this he meant he had a reputation for believing Communist ideas but for not "telling" on his buddies.

He said he was guilty of no wrongdoing against his fellow-prisoners during his more than three years as a captive. He was a member of the 1st Cavalry Division and was captured Nov. 5, 1950.

Asked whether he thought two other Texans in the compound might also ask repatriation, he said:

"I'm hopin' they will. After I come back it's possible they might."

Yesterday, speaking of the possibility of escape from the north camp, Batchelor said it was "dangerous" because some of the Americans had daggers. At the news conference yesterday, he said some of the South Koreans in the camp also have weapons.

Batchelor said he told Lt. Gen. K. S. Thinsaya, Indian chairman of the NNRC, that he had been "number one man" among the 22 Americans who declined repatriation.

Batchelor said the Chinese Communists had offered him, to decline repatriation:

"Travel and practically anything I wanted. They said I could go to Europe to help in the peace movement. They said I could go to South America and Asia. They said I could have any kind of education I wanted, anywhere I wanted it." He added:

"I didn't want to be a Communist. I just wanted to be a peacemaker. I just wanted to help the Communists advance some of their ideas—such as that America was an aggressive nation and the Soviet Union was peaceful. At the time, I believed those things. Some of the things they told me I didn't believe."

Eaton, to the local congregation. The Altar Choir and the Chapel Choir will sing and the pastor will give a brief communion meditation on the theme, "Redemption Through Sacrifice."

At 7:30 p.m., the service will take the form of a student recognition service, in which a number of the college students who are still at home, will actively participate. Michael Hannon will be the soloist.

The pastor will peak on the student recognition theme and on the beginning of the new year—"Moving Time." The challenge to leave past failures and destructive attitudes and habits and to move out into finer thoughts, truer devotion, will be the heart of the message.

Sunday School Lesson

Scripture—John 1: 20-30-31
By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

"There was a man sent from God, whose name was John." The man was John the Baptist.

Although the lesson is a long one, the teacher might briefly remind the pupils of John's birth. His father was a priest named Zacharias, his mother Elizabeth was a cousin of Jesus' mother. Unusual circumstances surrounded his birth, of which the teacher might tell briefly. We are told that as he grew older John lived by himself in the desert, and God called him to come forth and proclaim the coming of the Lord.

Many people had listened to John's preaching, had repented of their sins and been baptized by him. Naturally there was much speculation about him. Who was he, and why did he speak with such authority? Was he the Messiah for whom the Jews were hoping, a reincarnation of one of the prophets of old, or an impostor?

Priests and Levites were sent to question him and report to the authorities what they learned. "And they asked him, Art thou Elias?" And he said, I am not. Art thou that prophet? And he answered No.

"Then they said unto him, Who art thou? that we may give an answer to them that sent us. What sayest thou of thyself?"

"He said, I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord, as said the prophet Esaias." (Isaiah.)

When they asked him why he baptized with water, but there standeth one among you, whom ye know not; He it is who, coming after me, is preferred before me: whose shoe's latchet I am not worthy to unloose."

The next day John saw Jesus coming toward him and said, "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world. This is He of whom I said. After me cometh a Man which is preferred before me, for He is before me."

Then John told of the baptizing of Jesus and of the voice from heaven announcing Him as His beloved Son. "And I saw, and have record that this is the Son of God," John said.

The next day John stood and two of his disciples were with him, and seeing Jesus walking, John said again, "Behold the Lamb of God!" the two disciples heard him and followed Jesus. Jesus asked them, "What seek ye?" and they replied, "Master, where dwellest Thou?" Jesus said, "Come and see." They went with Him and stayed with Him that day. ## Benevolent Quotas Met Craigs Meadows—Clinton Custard and Gershon H. Litts, financial secretary and treasurer, respectively, of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Smithfield, announced last night that all benevolent quotas assigned the parish for 1953 have been met in full.

Rev. William F. Wunder, pastor, Fred Wyckoff's, the Session in the church parlors Tuesday night and the Lydia Church at Mrs. Bornhoeft's home, 134 Washington St., at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, so he hurried to find Peter (or Simon) and said to him, "We have found the Messiah, which is the Christ," and brought him to Jesus.

When He saw Simon Jesus said, "Thou art Simon, the son of Jonas; thou shalt be called Cephas, which is, by interpretation, a stone."

The next day Jesus went to Galilee and found Philip, and said, "Follow Me." Philip then found Nathaniel and told him he had found the Messiah "of whom Moses in the law, and the prophets, did write, Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph."

Nathaniel seemed a little doubtful, asking, "Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth?" Philip answered simply, "Come and see."

When the two came to Jesus, He said: "Behold an Israelite indeed, in which is no guile!"

Nathaniel was naturally surprised and asked Jesus, how He knew him? "Before that Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig tree, I saw thee." Reverently Nathaniel said: "Rabbi, Thou art the Son of God; Thou art the King of Israel." Because Jesus saw and recognized him, Nathaniel believed, Jesus said, adding, "Thou shalt see greater things than these."

Thus we see the beginning of Jesus' mission on earth, according to St. John, who closes the twentieth chapter of his epistle with these words:

"But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through His name."

There are possibly 620,000,000 people in the world today who are Christians or classified as such. The men of whom our lesson speaks were the very first Christians in the world.

Jesus asked the men who followed Him, "What seek ye?" What seek we, in this great world filled with confusion? If you ask children, the answers would be as varied as the children you question.

The older members of classes might join with their elders in seeking peace.

Facing His cruel death Jesus said to His followers: "Peace I leave unto you, My peace I give unto you, give as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."—John 14:27.

Let us, too, seek (and find) this peace that Christ left with us all.

I DON'T NEED TO GO TO CHURCH.

Yes, I'm one of those seventy-five million Americans who are not members of a church. Saturday and Sunday are the two days of the week I like to devote entirely to relaxation and recreation. Why should I spend an hour or so in church? I try to live straight—to put in a full day's work for my boss, to get along with my neighbor, to bring up my children in the proper way. As long as I'm trying to live respectably, why do I need to go to church? There is an answer, my friend. Since the beginning of history, you and millions like you have been trying to run your lives and this world of ours by your own knowledge and strength. You've said you didn't need help. But human experience declares that you have failed. The past has left us an ugly picture of cruelty and bloodshed, of hate and crime. The present finds us on the edge of fresh disaster—of devastating war on the outside and moral decay from within. This is the tragedy of man's proud attempt to live without God. You need help—help beyond the pale of human resources. You need the love of God that empowers a man to live a good life. You can find this love only in the Church—in fellowship and communion with Christ. He is in His Church—forgiving, loving, strengthening, giving men the courage and power for right living.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Pennsylvania First

Once again Pennsylvania is proving its historic importance in the nation's military life by being one of five areas across the country to participate in a program planned by the Army for more effective utilization of its reserves.

The Pennsylvania Military District through Brig. Gen. T. L. Futch, its chief, has been ordered to assign men released from their period of active duty to an active Army unit or to a National Guard or Army Reserve unit located near their homes, on a mobilization assignment basis.

The new plan offers a variety of possibilities for men who have finished their active duty with troops to complete the remainder of their military obligations. They may elect service with an organization most familiar to them and most convenient to where they live, perhaps one with whose members they are well acquainted.

One of the outstanding expectations in the development of the new plan is that it will permit reserve units to reach their mobilization strength in a comparatively short time and as Gen. Futch points out, this is in line with the recently enunciated policy to reduce the size of the ground forces on active duty while at the same time maintaining adequately trained reserve strength.

Pennsylvania is proud to have this additional responsibility placed upon it, and if past performances indicate those of the future, our commonwealth will meet the challenge as it has met every military demand placed upon it since the earliest days of the republic.

Passengers in Flight

One of the most interesting statistics at year's end shows the number of passengers transported by airlines of the world during 1953 to be 52 million, not including the air transport of Russia and Red China.

This amazing figure is up 10 per cent from last year and is the first time in the comparatively brief history of air transportation that the total for a single year surpassed 50 million.

All of which points out once again that in this 50th year of powered flight the industry has come a goodly distance. Since 1907, the first year statistical data was logged by the international civil aviation organization, miles flown by the carries have increased more than 600 per cent and at the same time passengers in flight have increased by almost 2,000 per cent.

These are figures not to be ignored as of no importance, for the aviation industry has become a major element in our overall economic structure as well as in that of the transportation world.

While no domestic airline has as yet put in service a jet-powered airliner such as has been flying for British airlines over a period of several years, it is generally conceded that the latest airliners produced by American factories and now going into service will be the last of the propeller-driven types. Jet liners in process of manufacture at several major American factories will be the next step in high-speed transport, with at least one of them scheduled to make its first test flight next year.

All in all, it's a far cry from Kitty Hawk on Dec. 17, 1903. What the next half century holds in the way of global air transport is beyond imagination.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Withdrawal Of U.S. Troops Speeds ROK Troop Power

Washington — South Korean officials are "crying before they're hurt" in complaining about the projected withdrawal of two American divisions.

Actually, that will speed up the increase of ROK fighting strength.

Under President Eisenhower's plan there will be no diminution in the total of combat forces in South Korea. The over-all number of divisions will remain the same.

That will come about as follows:

Before departing, each American division will turn over its arms and other battle gear to the ROKs with a few exceptions, such as late-model tanks. This equipment, in turn, will make possible the activation of new ROK divisions.

Lack of weapons is all that is keeping two additional ROK divisions from being commissioned into active service.

When that is done, that will bring the total up to 18 divisions.

The 16th division was activated last April. Since then, sufficient manpower has been trained to constitute two new divisions, plus a hefty start on a third. In addition, there is still another considerable source of military personnel available to the ROKs. This is South Koreans serving with American units, in some instances as many as 1,700 in a division.

This sizable supply of manpower will also make possible, in the course of 1954, expansion of the strength of ROK divisions from 10,600 to 12,500 troops per division. That will mean a big boost in their hitting (fire) power.

The Build-Up — Original plan for the revitalized ROK army fixed 20 divisions as the maximum fighting strength South Korea could soundly provide. When the Eisenhower Administration took office last January, 15 ROK divisions were in the battlements and another was nearing activation.

It costs the U. S. $100,000,000 to train, equip and maintain one ROK division a year.

The schedule called for the ROKs to have 18 divisions by the end of 1953. But after the ceasefire agreement, the Administration, for economy reasons, halted expenditures for more ROK equipment. That had the effect of freezing ROK strength at 16 divisions, plus sufficient personnel in training camps and with U. S. units to form three more divisions.

Two of them are now slated to be activated as the equipment required for that purpose is turned over to them by the departing American divisions.

The latter are not the only forces being "disengaged" in Korea.

Britain is planning to follow the

U. S. example.

London will withdraw all but one regiment of the famous Commonwealth Division. The various other battalions will either return to their homes or be sent to Red-periled Burma and other danger spots.

Notes: According to diplomatic insiders, the U. S. has made a secret new effort to reopen the stymied discussions on a Korean peace conference. The report is that the Indians are claiming the U. S. asked them to feel out the Chinese on a proposal to create two permanent "spheres of influence" in Korea based on the truce line. . . . In authoritative Pentagon quarters, the 1st Cavalry Division appears to have the edge on being the outfit that will be withdrawn to Hawaii. . . . Since the announcement of the withdrawal plan, President Syngman Rhee has intensified his demands for a bigger and more modern air force. At present, the ROKs have two squadrons of World War II P-51 fighters. Rhee wants not only jet fighters but also a number of bombers. U. S. Air chiefs are against that, both because of the cost and the additional capability it would give Rhee to start fighting again.

On The Spot—The next few days will determine whether Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson remains in the cabinet.

That's what White House insiders are telling GOP leaders.

Benson has submitted his long-awaited farm plan to President Eisenhower. The details are now under close study. The outcome of these inner discussions will decide Benson's fate.

Republican congressional chiefs claim the matter depends largely on whether Benson will agree to 90 percent party supports for another year. Instead a fixed support program, the Utahns has advocated flexible supports ranging from 75 to 100 percent of parity. But the congressional leaders say Benson has been firmly told the President "wants to stick to 80 percent for at least one more year."

According to the inside word, that's the key requirement for Benson's continuance in the cabinet.

One top congressional leader is putting it this way, "You can put your money safely on the certainty that farmers will get 90 percent of parity, and a little bit of heaven thrown in for Good Measure. This is an election year and we're not taking any more chances than we have to."

Note: Benson's personal aides are betting he will go along with the President's views and will continue in the cabinet.

George Sokolsky Says...

No Nation Can Stand Too Prolonged Doseages Of Bread And Circus Bribes

The problem that has always faced government by the direct consent of the governed is that the political mind too often is more interested in obtaining the consent than in government. In a word, politicians want to be elected and re-elected.

The nature of New Deal legislation is that both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman were involved in depression and war. Mr. Eisenhower, on the other hand, faces a condition of prosperity and a liquidation of war. At best, the New Deal was protective against failure of a civilization; at worst, it was an attempt to produce a Marxist revolution without the consent of the American people.

President Eisenhower was elected not to continue the New Deal but to arrest its movement and to change the course. His slogan was, "It is time for a change."

Mr. Roosevelt was so glamorous that a large element of the American people believed that he was serving them as well as he could in troubled times. They demonstrated this judgment by electing him four times to the Presidency.

Mr. Truman inherited Roosevelt's errors of judgment and the consequences that flowed therefrom. He knew that Roosevelt had opened the door to a motley crew of subversives, but a partisan loyalty paralyzed normal repugnance for such persons. If Mr. Truman says that he rid the government of spies, subversives and queers, he should produce as evidence a list of those whom he dismissed prior to investigations by Congressional committees and the scandals attending them.

Mr. Truman's inhibition is a characteristic of one of the major weaknesses of representative government, for what is involved is a conflict between principles of life and being elected. Disclosure of the espionage apparatus, of the operations of subversives, of the infiltration of government by a foreign foe, would have defeated, as it did, the party in power, Mr. Truman's party. It would have been a repudiation of Roosevelt. He issued his 1948 order sealing files that would have produced the truth.

The Eisenhower Administration faced no such responsibility and no such loyalty to individuals. It could have thrown out the spies, subversives and queers upon assuming office. In his first State of the Union message, President Eisenhower indicated such a purpose by saying that employment by government is a privilege, not a right.

His Administration was paralyzed by the Civil Service and Veterans Preference. It was again a struggle between principle and being elected. In each department of government, powerful pressures were exercised to keep so-called experts in office. For instance, Herbert Brownell, Jr., Attorney General, had it as his purpose to use the law to eliminate spies, subversives and queers from the government. He is ardent in anti-Communism. How-

Though Rene Coty, newly-elected president of France, is not related to the famed cosmetic family, he certainly brings a new face to front-rank French politics.

Zadok Dumkopf notes that Coty came to the fore in the balloting after a leading candidate, Premier Laniel, took a powder from the race.

This series of cold waves is easily explained. Old Man Winter who showed up late for work must be trying to make up for lost time.

On reading that Hungary plans a postage stamp honoring its victorious football squad, the man at the next desk comments that the team must have been letter perfect.

Four barbers in a Pittsburgh shop have totalled 207 years' service. That's a trim figure!

ever, as his chief assistant, a politically conscious lawyer, William P. Rogers, was appointed, who weakened the cooperation between the Department of Justice and the Congressional committees that had developed when James McGranery was Attorney General in the Truman Administration.

Similarly in the State Department, where a clean sweep would have been welcomed by the people, a paralysis set in even to the protection of un-American elements and the persecution of pro-American personalities in the U. S. Information Agency. This paralysis is inexplicable because John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State, is a student of the Marxist conspiracy.

In the Department of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson, the most competent Secretary of Agriculture in a generation, presides. He started to clean house with vigor. He enunciated a program of saving agriculture from its own errors and protecting the economy of the nation. Suddenly he was paralyzed by the aggressive political pressures from self-serving groups. He has been fighting back with astonishing candor but not with too much success.

Most republics in history have failed on this one issue, namely, that after the politicians have learned to bribe the people with subsidies, the people learn to prefer glamor to principle; they learn to prefer subsidies to a sound economy. No nation can stand too prolonged a dose of these opiates. The heart, that is the moral stature, of the nation degenerates and dies.

This is our major political problem in this year 1954 and the Eisenhower Program may meet it.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

An 18-year-old student in a Western college shot and killed himself the other day.

His fellow students had not noticed anything very unusual about the boy except, perhaps, that he seemed "nervous and lonely."

When his father, an attorney, was asked whether he could explain his son's action, he said:

"Who could tell if he was troubled? Parents would be the last to know of those things."

He said that he had seen the boy only the week before "and he appeared in good spirits."

Why is it that "parents would be the last to know of those things"? Shouldn't they be the FIRST ones to know whether their child is troubled by problems that may seem a mountain to him but may easily be explained as just a molehill by an understanding father or mother?

Youth is lonely and nervous. That may be the reason why children form into gangs and groups.

Imagine a child suddenly becoming aware of LIFE with all its worries and puzzles.

He is afraid to go to his parents for the answers and the solutions. "Parents don't understand," a kid told me.

Haven't they always told him "you are too young"? Haven't they, by their anxious desire to shield him from harm, closed the very doors to life for him?

So what is he to do? Where is he to go for advice and guidance?

His fellow adolescents don't know any more about life and its responsibilities than he does. But they have the same problems.

God help the boy or girl who has to find the answers himself or by the help of his schoolmates! They can go only by what they see their elders do or what they read in the kind of literature that children like to read.

I saw a newspaper strip the other day. A teen-age girl says to her father, "Lots of women have married as young as I am. I don't see why I shouldn't." "Can the young man support a wife?"

asks the father. "He earns $12 a week after school," says the girl. "Do you think you can live on so little a week?" the father queries. And then comes her reply: "Heavens father, when two people truly love each other, two weeks slides by before you know it."

That's all there is to marriage and its economic problems, as far as the teen-ager is concerned.

Did the father explain to his daughter what marriage is all about, what its responsibilities are, that love is a wonderful thing but that while it makes time shrink it certainly does not shrink grocery bills?

If parents are "the last to know about those things," it certainly is not the fault of the child.

Child-suicide—and there is too much of it—is usually the result of too many unanswered questions.

Try and Stop Me

Will Rogers could always get a big laugh while touring with the Ziegfeld Follies by casting an admiring look at the famous chorus line and observing, "Aren't they beautiful? It's sad to think that five or six years from now, every one of them girls will be a year older!" Will also explained that in every town the show visited, some impulsive millionaire would add to Mr. Ziegfeld's problems by whisking one of the beauties off her feet and marrying her. "It means quite a problem in understudies," concluded Rogers, "because sometimes those girls don't rejoin the show for a full month."

The son of a big movie producer was making an infrequent visit to the city zoo. Just as he passed the lion's cage, the king of beasts let out an ear-shattering roar. The lad's face brightened and he proposed, "What do you say, Ma, we stay on for the picture?"

New York—Things one New Yorker thinks about:

Breaking bread the other forenoon with actress Rita Gam in an East Side chophouse, I was impressed once more with the strange manner in which glamor, unquothed, is uncarved in show business. The curvy, Pittsburgh-born Miss Gam, who has black hair and blue-green eyes and grew up in New York, played the following parts on Broadway before that power-charged bit role in the soundless movie The King Came Along: the young King David, a butterfly in The Insect Comedy, with Jose Ferrer, an Indian girl, a college student and a high school girl. What I want to know, Mr. Anthony, is how, in that conglomeration of roles, Miss Rita succeeded in sneaking through enough sex appeal so that the movie people said "This is it; move over, Theda Bara."

Miss Gam, who currently lives in this sinful town with her TV director husband, Sidney Lumet, has, incidentally, the perfect answer to those souls who ask her how she manages to project all that zing-zong on celluloid. Queried thus when she returned from making Night People in West Germany, she just leaned back and said, "How do you show sex? You just show it." It was the kind of answer Dietrich would have given. I am sure, and she passed that course summa cum laude a long time ago.

Well—it had to come. The town's getting a hotel for birds—and not just so saloon comex can say "Audubon House? Listen, that's for the birds!" They're landscaping the terraces of the top-two floors at that upper Fifth avenue building, owned by the National Audubon society, to create a sanctuary for migratory flocks.

The avian hostelry will have a pool and rock garden, and all this conceivably may lure some Bowery birds, a rare and sorrowful species whose only available hotels, known in trade circles as flophouses, are somewhat less magnificently fitted out.

As a man dedicated to the sartorial glorification of men, I am delighted at the newest step in this direction. Several Manhattan saloons of the richer variety have lately catered to gentlemen coming in after six in light-weight, midnight blue mess-jacket tuxedos with cummerbund and matching tie.

We soon should be back in the atmosphere of Louis XIV, when men even wore cosmetics and carried muffs. Of course that may be a trifle too much.

Speaking of fashion, I have been dipping lately into Fashion and the Unconscious, by Dr. Edmund Bergler of Central Park West. This 13th book by the good doctor deals with the designing of women's clothes by men, and he says that such designers are afraid of women and strike back by dreaming up gowns that humiliate, expose and generally louse up the female.

I suspect that most average men, endlessly confused and frightened by the outfits that women arrange themselves in from time to time, will agree completely with Dr. Bergler.

I always knew that this is a city where the lights burn long at night, but not until I read Pulse, Inc.'s recent survey did I realize just how long.

It develops that there are more than two million persons listening in Manhattan every night to the banalities of most of the disc jockeys who operate after midnight—and, which is even more startling, 25.6 per cent of these insomniacs are housewives, yet.

They make up the largest single segment of after-midnight radio listeners, with clerical workers and salesmen in second place and then, in order, manual workers, students, professional men, executives, service workers, retired men and unemployed. No mention is made of taxi drivers or barkeeps, who one would imagine would lead the list.

Two Autos, Truck, Police Car Damaged In Chain Of Accidents

Bushkill—Close shaves came by the half-dozen lots Thursday afternoon near here, according to a report from Milford State police.

At 3:05 p.m. a car driven by Donald G. Orner, 26, of 2631 Aqueduct Road, Schenectady, N. Y., skidded on icy highway and overturned on Route 209 two miles north of Bushkill.

Orner was not injured. His wife and baby were trapped inside the car for ten minutes until a window was broken allowing them to escape.

A State police patrol car, driven by Pfc. John McCarthy, stopped to investigate the accident and help the Orners.

McCarthy parked the car off the road near the overturned vehicle. Minutes later, Warren Eschbach, Bushkill, stopped his pickup truck to assist the patrolman and the driver.

Both cars and the truck were off the highway.

Then, shortly before 4 p.m., a car driven by W. Sacket of Hyde Park, N. Y., en route to Wilkes-Barre, hit the icy spot in the paving.

Sacket had seen the overturned car. He slowed just as he hit the ice.

Sacket's car went into a spin, skidded into Eschbach's truck and the State patrol car.

Then the Sacket vehicle swung off the highway, throwing both the driver and his wife out of the car at separate spots.

The man and woman landed in the snow. The car went on to crash into a nearby tree.

Neither Sacket nor his wife were injured.

McCarthy, who had just re-entered the patrol car to radio the sub-station, was not hurt. Neither was Eschbach, who had climbed back into his truck.

Damage to the Sacket car was believed heavy. Damage to other vehicles—including the patrol car—were not serious.

Police Tagged 160 Parkers In One Day

Not all the alleged "bad situation" which the burgess said he wished to "remedy" was due to laxity on the part of police, Harris declared.

Part of the cause of the "situation" could be traced to a few "chiselers," he said.

Some residents, the burgess said, had been known to "jam" meters by placing two coins in the slot.

A few others resorted to a practice of putting a coin in the slot, turning the knob halfway and leaving both the time-marker and the red flag in a half-mast position on the meter, he indicated.

Either practice, Harris pointed out, led to a complaint from the violator to the police officer who was doing his job, that the meter was "out of order."

Another part of the "situation" which needed correction, Burgess Harris indicated, was a practice of overtime parking by some motorists who put money in side street meters without turning the handle, apparently on a gamble that a police officer would not come around for some time.

When the officer did appear, the mayor noted, the coin would be "turned up," giving the motorist "time" on the meter. If the officer returned later, a ticket might be placed on the car.

It was a gamble that quite often worked, however, the burgess said. If the motorist parked his car early in the morning, got a ticket at noon and left the car in the same place all day, it was still cheaper to pay the 25 cents for the ticket than it would have been to pay five cents per hour for eight hours in a tightly-patrolled area.

No estimate of the number of tickets issued Thursday could be made last night, Burgess Harris said.

Yesterday was a holiday. No tickets are issued on legal holidays by the borough.

Truck Hit By Vehicle It Was Towing

A Mount Pocono truck driver got a good dent for a good deed yesterday.

State police at the local sub-station said Russell Nauman, 29, of Mount Pocono, was towing a truck operated by Russell J. Snyder, 18, of Woodland Road, Mount Pocono, at 3 p.m.

When Nauman's truck turned, Snyder's vehicle struck the left side of the tow truck. The accident occurred on Woodland Road in Paradise Township.

No one was injured in the accident. Damages to the left front and steering of the Nauman vehicle and extensive damages to the cab and right side of the Snyder truck were reported by police.

No charges will be made in the case, police said.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

The New Year's Day breakfast is rapidly becoming as popular as the New Year's Eve party, and is sort of a by-product. Everybody's having such a wonderful time on New Year's Eve that when somebody says "Why don't you all come over to the house for breakfast about 9:30" why everybody else says "Why not?"

And they mean it, too. Maybe we've discovered a substitute for sleep. Certainly everybody looked far fresher and more rested than they had any right to expect. Maybe shared laughter and companionship are as effective as uneasy sleep.

At any rate, after breakfast a lot of people went skating at the lake. If afterwards they fell asleep watching the bowl games, that might be a combination of the exercise and all that fresh air, mightn't it?

You realize this has been a wonderful holiday as far as weather and ice skating is concerned, anyway? The skates have had more use this year than in the past five put together.

While it was sort of squishy near town, it was perfect at Brainerd and Ananims Lake, my trustworthiness. If somewhat wobbly-ankled - scouts reported.

Happy New Year is going to have to go some to stay as happy as it started out.

Highlights of the party were the games which had been brought by Dr. Shellenberger from South Bend, Ind., together with the prizes which he had brought. Refreshments were served.

Economic Outlook Uncertain In 1954 After Record Year

By James B. Gaffney

Despite the gloomy predictions by economic prophets of recession or depression in 1953, Monroe County and environs fared well with business last year.

Employment reached its greatest peak in history in the Poconos, propelled in general by the construction field with major building scattered throughout the area contributing to success.

James B. Gaffney

What this year holds is still another question, but because of the year-end wind up of the principal constructions and subsequent employment of personnel to man those facilities, prospects look good.

As the year retired an air of uncertainty hung over the nation's business. In Washington business men are arming against a possible lull and are counted upon to fill the production gap caused by the end of the Korean war.

While a few local industries experienced minor setbacks last year, most of it caused by overstocking, a slow moving market and stepped up competition on the national front, most industries, retail and wholesale enterprises held their own.

The Signal Corps depot at Tobyhanna will be dedicated in the Spring and Civil Service employment is being stepped up daily to reach the peak capacity later in the year.

Development of that section now appears contingent on how many depot personnel and their families settle there. If the number reaches a comfortable proportion a labor market for family members could develop and outside business may head in that direction. Several feelers already have been made in the county by industries looking for a wide open labor market.

The year-end check also discloses a see-saw effect for the garment industry. One Stroudsburg plant shut down for several months, expecting to resume operations in February, and others had temporary layoffs while the market stood still.

In East Stroudsburg two major plants expanded their floor facilities but the enlargement didn't augment the employment rolls too much. Their work remained stable, however.

Another large plant went into full production, added more workers to the roll and closed only two weeks for inventory. But the report now in circulation is that another substantial industry will lay off from 35 to 40 men shortly.

While the decline here is not expected to be felt heavily in the pocketbooks since jobs still are available for those going off, any drop in employment is a setback for the individual worker.

With the completion of three toll bridges across the Delaware River, this spring probably will see an even greater influx of vacation-bound families to the Poconos. Most resorts report a good 1953, and are looking forward to an even better '54.

Whatever the economic outcome, the guarded optimism and awareness of possible readjustment are good guarantees against failure. Personal 10 per cent tax cuts will undoubtedly help everyone and the heavy consumer savings will loom as a soft-shoulder for buying and retail sales for alert merchants. Happy New Year.

River Water Piped To Reservoir

Bedford, Pa. — Water began flowing yesterday through an emergency pipeline connecting the Juniata River with the dried-up reservoir of this drought-stricken community of 4,000.

Bedford police said the water began flowing about noon yesterday and was moving at a rate of 1,200 gallons a minute. Police estimated it would take 14 to 20 days to fill up the reservoir with the emergency pipeline.

The 3,700-foot line, stretching from the Wolfburg Dam on the Juniata to the reservoir, was completed Thursday. Some 40 volunteers worked two days to lay the pipe.

Two pumps to push water up a steep hill had to be installed.

At Somerset, officials planned laying an 8,300-foot pipeline to fill a dry private reservoir at the Somerset State Hospital. The line will connect with the borough's water system.

Spartans Rip Uclan Line With Midget Backs

By Bob Myers
Pasadena, Calif., (AP) — Michigan State's famed pony backfield, staging a brilliant comeback in the third quarter, went on to stomp UCLA into submission by a 28-20 score in the Rose Bowl yesterday and give the Big Ten its seventh triumph in eight games of the post-season series with the Pacific Coast Conference.

Trailing by 14 points early in the second quarter, and 14-7 at the half, the co-champions of the Big Ten seared the Bruins of UCLA with two magnificent drives stretching 78 and 73 yards that tied the score and put them ahead by a 21-14 margin.

Keeping the crowd of 100,000 or more fans in a state of hysteria, All-America halfback Paul Cameron hurled his second touchdown strike to bring the score up to 21-20. But Johnny Hermann's try for the tying point was wide to the left and for all intents, that was the ball game.

The crusher was applied in the final period when Bill Wells, right halfback for the Spartans, fielded a Cameron punt and raced 62 yards for a touchdown.

Actually the game was decided in the first 13 minutes of the third quarter.

Held to an astonishing 56 yards running and passing in the first half, Michigan State took the second half kickoff and proceeded to slash the vaunted UCLA defense to ribbons. Sticking to the ground, left halfback Leroy Bolden, fullback Evan Slonac and Wells, the pony ball carriers, knocked off 78 yards in 14 machine-like plays.

This, with Slonac's perfect day in conversions, tied the score.

Back came the furious three-zone, knocking holes in the left side of the UCLA line, to travel 73 yards in 10 plays and one 15-yard penalty assessed against the Bruins.

MSC looked the part of the nation's third best team as voted by Associated Press member football experts, as the team got hot in that dramatic third period.

Cameron, the key man for the Bruins, rated number five nationally, was a standout but he could not overcome the MSC speed and finesse.

All of the UCLA touchdowns stemmed from fumbles, and all were produced by hard hitting linemen, spearheaded by tackle Jack Ellena.

Cameron scored once from two yards out, and passed for 12 yards to halfback Bill Stits for another touchdown, and 28 yards to end Rommie Loud for the third.

Coach Clarence Biggie Munn's Spartans thus returned to Big Ten to the victory perch after a one-year lapse. It was quite a display for Munn's comeback kids in what might be his last game as a coach.

He is reported stepping up to the athletic directorship of the big school at East Lansing.

Michigan State scoring: Touchdowns, Duckett, Bolden, Wells 2; Conversions, Slonac 4.

UCLA scoring: Touchdowns, Stits, Cameron, Loud, Conversions, Hermann 2.

Cavaliers Will Battle At Slatington

East Stroudsburg's Cavaliers head for an open basketball battle tonight at Slatington Memorial Hall when they meet Slatington's favored team for the Lehigh Valley League Invitational championship. Slatington's quintet boasts experienced players, most of whom played on the team during last year's season.

When the Cavaliers go on the floor tonight at "about 9 p.m." they'll be up against a high pressure, high scoring organization billed in advance as the "team to beat" in the tournament.

The championship game will be the second court battle at the hall tonight.

In the early game, Northampton and Leighton lock horns for the consolation ticket in the tourney. Eastburg beat out Leighton—another team with big billing—Wednesday night by a score of 53 to 38 for a crack at the championship.

East Stroudsburg head coach Jack Kist said last night that his team, under guidance of basketball coach Dick Forster, will "probably be meeting the best team in the tournament" when they tangle with Slatington tonight.

Forster is expected to put his team's best feet forward in the opening lineup. Bill Pensyl will again start as center for the team; Harold White and Bob Kupiszewski will be the guards; Don Herman and Joe Chase will serve as forwards.

Both Herman and Pensyl scored heavily in Wednesday night's successful game against Leighton. Herman accounted for 19 points; Pensyl dropped in 17.

National Basketball Association Rochester 79, Philadelphia 76. Milwaukee 62, Baltimore 52.

WITH 10 of the 33 Detroit Lions who competed in the world's pro championship game against the Browns already under contract for 1954, Nick Kerbaw, general manager of the champs, will forward the signed contracts to NFL headquarters. Those already signed are Dolk Walker, Leon Hart, Jug Girard, Yale Lary, Bob Smith, LaVerne Torgeson, Les Bingaman, Cloyce Box, Jim Doran and Dorne Dibble.

Dicky Moegle Drives Rice To 28-6 Victory Over Tide

By Harold V. Ratliff
Dallas, (AP) — Steel-legged Dicky Moegle dashed 79, 95 and 34 yards for touchdowns today as the precision-blocking Rice Owls blasted Alabama's Crimson Tide for a 28-6 victory in the Cotton Bowl in a game marked by a player coming off the bench to tackle a runner—the first time it ever happened in a bowl.

Tommy Lewis, big Alabama fullback, was the boy who couldn't restrain himself as Moegle broke into the clear on a touchdown run. He hit the 167-pound tow-head on the Alabama 42, knocked him down so hard Moegle had to take time out. Rice was awarded a penalty touchdown on the play. Moegle got credit for 95 yards, although he had gone only 53 yards when Lewis pulled his sideline tackle.

Moegle's performance was the greatest running show in the 18-year history of the Cotton Bowl. His 208 yards on three touchdown dashes was something to behold.

It was a great game for the spectators 75,504 of them, although Kase Johnson, the Rice All-America fullback, played less than a quarter. Entering the game with an ankle sprain, he was hurt on a jarring tackle and had to sit out most of his final college game.

But Johnson wasn't missed with Moegle running wild and the Rice line pulverizing the Tide on offense. Substitutes made one of the Owls touchdowns. An intercepted pass set up the lone Alabama score.

The incident of Lewis coming off the bench occurred midway of the second quarter. Moegle started his run from the Rice five, and was upended abruptly by Lewis on the 42 after running 33 yards.

Rice got the score under a ruling that says that "anyone other than a player or official who tackles a runner who is in the clear and on his way to a reasonably assured touchdown" results in an awarded touchdown.

Alabama — 6 0 0 0 — 6
Rice — 0 14 7 7 — 28
Alabama scoring: Touchdown, Lewis.

Rice scoring: Touchdowns, Moegle 3, Grantham, Conversions, Fenstermaker 3, Burk.

Team Joins Coach In Prayer Of Thanks

Pasadena, Calif., (AP) — The scene in the Michigan State dressing room after the Rose Bowl football game yesterday was as crammed with emotion as the game was with thrills.

After all the players had piled in, coach Eggie Munn blew his whistle.

Munn's voice was choked and he was nearly in tears as he told his team:

"I've never been so proud of a game in my life. I want to thank all of you. There are tears in my eyes but I can't help it. I appreciate it so much. Let's say a prayer."

The entire squad went down on their knees and some were weeping in their prayer.

"God bless you," said Munn as the prayer ended.

Munn was given the game ball by the team.

"It's the first ball I've kept in my life," he said, "but I really wanted this one."

"It was wonderful, just wonderful," was all captain Don Dohoney could say.

Newsman swarmed around Wells, who put the game away with his last two touchdowns.

"I didn't do anything," he said. "My teammates did it all."

Then he grinned as he confided that he had a date to take movie starlet Debbie Reynolds dining and dancing New Year's night.

West Virginia Forgets About Pass Defense

By Harold Claassen
New Orleans, (AP) — Pepper Rodgers, Georgia Tech's poised quarterback, blocked West Virginia's bid for national football recognition yesterday with three touchdown passes and canny signal calling that produced a 42-19 Sugar Bowl victory.

West Virginia, smarting from criticism which followed its selection as Tech's opponent, wasn't disgraced. The Mountaineers simply forgot all about pass defense. As a result, the 76,000 spectators saw the highest scoring game in the 20 years of the bowl.

Georgia Tech, with Rodgers at the helm, had its first touchdown after a little more than three minutes and by the end of the first half had wiped out the Sugar Bowl record of yards gained passing in any of the previous 19 contests.

The Mountaineers, Southern Conference champions and winners of eight of nine during the season, had absolutely nothing with which to halt Rodgers in the first half. West Virginia, apparently fearful of Tech's speedy end sweeps, played a seven or eight-man line. Rodgers and his mates gained 253 yards on passes in the first half alone.

Rodgers passing brought him the most outstanding player award in a vote of sports writers.

After the intermission, West Virginia swung to a more orthodox defense. So Larry Ruffin, a Tech substitute back, circled his left end at the start of the fourth period for 47 yards and Tech's fifth touchdown.

Rodgers' first play from scrimmage was a pass, a 20-yard gain to Glenn Turner. The first touchdown march was 67 yards with the dead-eye marksman flinging five passes to four different receivers.

Eight minutes later, Tech got a second marker with Rodgers again doing the passing. He connected with three additional receivers this time, making seven different players to catch his passes in the first period.

It wasn't until the final stages of the period that West Virginia crossed the midfield stripe, although Tommy Allman, Mountaineer fullback, once broke through for a 60-yard run that was nullified by a penalty.

West Virginia, using substitute backs, continued its first period march at the start of the second and scored to cut the edge to 14-6 but didn't register again until the fourth period when it got two more.

It was a six-yard flip to Henry Hair that brought Tech its only other first half touchdown to make the count 20-6 at the half.

Tech varied its scoring style at the start of the third when Rodgers connected on an 18-yard field goal on fourth down. Tech finally got a touchdown on a run when halfback Leon Hardeman romped 24 yards for the marker.

Then came Ruffin's end sweep. Billy Teas climaxed another drive with a nine-yard spurt over tackle.

Joe Marconi, West Virginia's outstanding player of the day, swung into the end zone with the Mountaineers' second touchdown to end a 70-yard drive early in the fourth. Allman followed a little later with another on a short smash.

West Virginia — 0 6 0 13 — 19
Georgia Tech — 14 6 9 13 — 42

West Virginia scoring: Touchdowns, Williams, Marconi, Allman, Conversions, Allman.

Georgia Tech scoring: Touchdowns, Hensley, Durham, Hair, Hardeman, Ruffin, Teas, Field Goal, Rodgers, Conversions, Rodgers 2, Turner.

East-West Game This Afternoon

San Francisco (AP) — Stars and near greats of the 1953 college football season pool their talents here today in the name of charity — the famed East-West game.

This the 23rd showing of the classic, which funnels all its profits to the Shriners crippled children's hospital here, will be televised nationally over the Dumont network starting with pre-game ceremonies at 4:15 p.m. EST. The coast to coast radio broadcast will be over the Mutual system.

Gridiron warriors who made national headlines in their final college year — only seniors participate now — will be seen in action. Such as Notre Dame's John Lattner, one of the ace halfbacks for the East, and an All America of 1953, Stanford's All America Sam Morley, playing end for the West.

Perez Decisions Gallardo In Boxing-Wrestling Melee

New York, (AP) — Lulu Perez, wiry 20-year-old Brooklyn featherweight, sliced open an old cut around Davey Gallardo's left eye last night enroute to a unanimous 10-round decision in the "rubber" match between the two battlers at Madison Square Garden. In the last three rounds the boys threw the rule book out the window in a weird boxing-wrestling melee. Each weighed 130 pounds.

Referee Ruby Goldstein had his hands full in the final stages as tempers flared and the two men concentrated on trying to wrestle each other through the ropes.

Both men were pushed through the ropes twice and they both went down in one wild scramble that reminded spectators of the Willie Pep-Sandy Saddler affair a few years back.

Referee Goldstein voted for Perez 7-2-1, Judge Jack Gordon scored it 6-3-1 and Judge Arthur Suskind 6-4, all for Lulu, the dancing kid with the darting jab. The AP card had Perez on top 6-4.

The bad feeling broke out in the eighth round after Gallardo, who manhandled Perez in their second fight Nov. 27, was wrestled through the ropes. When he got up, he offered to touch gloves with Perez only to get a punch instead.

Away they went with Gallardo pushing Lulu through the ropes after clamping a near strangle hold around his neck. Perez answered in kind and they did little else during the last two rounds.

Long Winning Streak Halted

Orlando, Fla., (AP) — Arkansas State and East Texas State battled to a 7-7 tie here last night in the eighth annual Tangerine Bowl game as the Texans' 29-game winning streak, longest in college football, came to an end.

The Lions victorious in every game since North Texas State defeated them early in the 1951 season, had to come from behind to gain a deadlock in the last quarter.

In the final quarter, East Texas marched 61 yards in nine plays with Billy Ray Norris pounding over left guard from the 1 for the touchdown. George Riley kicked the extra point that tied it up with nine minutes left.

9 NDS Orioles

Baltimore, (AP) — Nine players on the Baltimore reserve list of 44 men are reinstated National Defense Service ballplayers. They are Mike Blyzka, Bob Caffery, Royco Ippolito, Don Larsen, Bob Maser, Bill Pilgrim, Jim Pisone and Bob Turley. Pitchers Larsen and Turley are the most highly regarded by the Oriole officials.

Oklahoma's Savage Line Breaks Maryland Apart In 7-0 Orange Bowl Victory

By Ben Funk
Miami, Fla., (AP) — A savage Oklahoma line broke Maryland's heart with two vicious first-half goal line stands yesterday, then surged to a 7-0 Orange Bowl victory over the national champions on halfback Larry Grigg's 25-yard touchdown run.

Disheartened by the loss of its brilliant quarterback, Bernie Faloney, who sat on the bench slapping his injured left knee in frustration, Maryland's morale suffered a fatal blow when Oklahoma held twice after the Terps had stabbed to first downs inside the 10.

Stunned by the furious hitting power of the eager Oklahoma defense, Maryland already was a demoralized force when Grigg, taking a pitchout from quarterback Gene Calame, raced to the game's only touchdown with five minutes gone in the second quarter.

Maryland's Coach Jim Tatum sent Faloney into the game with three minutes left in the third period in a desperate effort to save the Terps from their first shutout in 51 games, but Faloney failed to rally the team and was taken out after only five plays. It was only the third time Maryland had been blanked in Tatum's seven seasons there.

Oklahoma's quarterback position also was weakened when Calame was taken out just before the end of the first half with a collarbone separation. But Jack Van Pool guided the team capably in the last two periods as Oklahoma protected its lead with cautious play.

With Faloney out because of torn knee ligaments suffered in the last game of the season with Alabama, the game failed to provide a true test of Maryland's national championship. But Oklahoma's light, fast-moving forces were keyed to such a high pitch they might have won under any circumstances. A crowd of 67,718 watched the duel.

After Oklahoma's two goal line stands which halted Maryland once just a foot from the goal and again at the six, Calame shifted the Sooners' great rushing attack, which led the nation in yards gained, into high gear. The Sooners traveled 80 yards to the game-winning touchdown.

At the Maryland 25, Grigg ran wide to his left, took the pitchout from Calame, and sped to the score with halfback Bob Burris clearing his way with a block that flattened two Maryland defenders.

The game was a battle between the country's best rushing offense and the best rushing defense and in the clash it was Maryland's defense that yielded. The Sooners rushed for a net of 208 yards. During the regular season, in marching to 10 straight victories and the mythical college championship, Maryland rationed its opponents to an average of 83.9 yards a game.

Oklahoma — 0 7 0 0 — 7
Oklahoma scoring: Touchdown, Grigg. Conversion, Leake.

T-Style Grid Wins In Texas

Dallas — The single wingback style of football is definitely on the way out, if Texas high schools are indicative of the trend.

So few schools now run from this formation that the Texas coaching school next August won't use the single wingback in its all-star game. The teams will use the T-both standard and split.

It's the first time the single wingback will not be employed by one of the schoolboy teams.

A check-up by the Texas High School Coaches Association showed that only 13 per cent of the 800 high schools playing football in Texas now use the single wing or a variation thereof.

SPUTTERINGS

Here it is just the turn of the year and already we're reminded (and it's not bad) that the baseball teams will be trekking to the training camps in the southland and out west in six weeks.

Our good friend, Dave Grote, the National League publicist, sends along a Happy New Year note about the senior loop teams, listing the minor league All-Stars ready to give it the business in the hopes of being major leaguers by mid-April.

As a preliminary then, we might take note that the No. 1 prospect of all is a fellow you hardly could overlook. His name is Donald Eugene Conley and he's a pitcher—the tallest player in all baseball. He stands 6 feet 8 inches.

Not only his stature makes him the "big" man of the rookie brigade. He comes up to the Milwaukee Braves with a terrific record in the American Association. The record: 23 wins, 9 losses. He merely led the Association, playing with Toledo, in eight departments.

You'd expect this big boy to come from Texas, where everything is big including those Texas Fifth's.

But no, Gene Conley is from Muskogee, Okla., and he's just turned 23. He's been in the minors just three years and his record stands up with the best of those who have come up in the past.

The Braves took a look at him last Spring but sent him out for seasoning.

Probably the most significant sign about this guy, in addition to his size, is his control, which is something most rookies have not.

In his first season with Hartford, in 1951, he won 26 games, including nine shutouts. He struck out 173 that year, as against 53 walks. With Milwaukee in the Association in 1952, after a short stint with the Braves, he struck out 143 and gave up only 46 walks. This season, with Toledo, he struck out 211 and walked only 57.

The Braves got him after he had starred in baseball and basketball at Washington State College. In fact, he might have become a star professional eager had he stuck to that sport. He did play with the Boston Celtics during the Winter of 1952.

While it is so early that preliminary rating of Milwaukee hopes in the 1954 pennant chase is out-of-line, many experts believe that the Braves could be rough in 1954 with the strength added to their pitching staff if newcomers like Conley can make the grade.

For, in addition to Conley, the Braves will look over Ray Crone, a 19-11 record at Jacksonville, plus several others of the youngster brigade.

Adding to the Braves' hopeful outlook is the expected release from the Army this month of Chet Nichols, the star southpaw of the 1951 team.

Australia's Tennis Twins Scoff At Pros

Melbourne, GP—Australia's 19-year-old tennis twins, Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad, and American Champion Tony Trabert yesterday scoffed at reports they were being tempted by pro offers.

The Melbourne Herald said Jack Kramer, American promoter, had dangled feelers in front of the game's most notable amateur personalities and that Trabert had expressed interest in the proposition.

Trabert, who is anxious to get back to the University of Cincinnati basketball team for which he plays when he isn't swatting a tennis ball, said it was "absolutely ridiculous" to think of his turning pro in the near future.

Mize Signs For Job If Richmond Plays

Richmond, Va., GP—Johnny Mize, who retired as a pinch-hitter deluxe with the World Champion New York Yankees after the 1953 season, was signed as a part-time coach for Richmond's if-and-when International League baseball team.

The announcement of Mize's signing came from Mize's home in Delton Springs, Fla., and was made by Harry C. Seibold, local industrialist who will operate the city's Triple A franchise—if it is obtained.

Reds Sign Pair

Cincinnati, GP—A Negro third baseman from Tulsa of the Texas League, Charley (Chuck) Harmon, and catcher Frank Baldwin have signed contracts with the Cincinnati Redlegs for 1954. The latest additions bring to five the number signed so far.

Too Many Mistakes Says Coach

New Orleans, GP—"We were beaten by a damned good football team. We made too many mistakes."

West Virginia coach Art Lewis had tears in his eyes in his team's dressing room after the Mountaineers had just taken a 42-19 setback from Georgia Tech in the 20th annual Sugar Bowl football game.

Lewis asked newsmen not to talk to his players, who filed into the dressing room on the verge of tears.

The Mountaineers' coach, who lifted West Virginia out of football doldrums to tenth ranking among the nation's football powers, gave a weak pass defense as the chief reason for the Mountaineers' defeat.

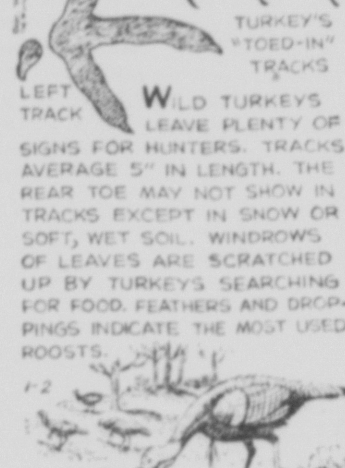

"Our defense just fell apart," he said, "but Tech never threw that much all year. Tech was easily the best team we met."

There is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked digits give you.

H. G. Heller, Editor,
The Daily Record,
Dear Horace:

On behalf of residents of Arlington Heights and myself, we want to thank The Daily Record and you for the wonderful article regarding our traffic conditions.

With the cooperation of the proper authorities, I believe we will be able to eliminate this terrible hazard to life among our people.

Let us hope that those we have put our confidence in, do something immediately about this terrible condition.

Sincerely Yours,

Mr. Horace G. Heller, Editor
The Daily Record
Stroudsburg, Pa.
Dear Mr. Heller:

May I add my "Bravo" to the applause which echoed throughout Monroe County after your editorial in the December 18th edition of The Daily Record, entitled "Just Recognition," regarding the need of providing schools in the State of Pennsylvania for children with cerebral palsy and those mentally retarded.

No one can deny the satisfying results which school produce in making useful citizens of these less fortunate children, who without aid would have to depend all their lives upon their families or the State of Pennsylvania. How fortunate and foresighted our county is to have such a school—the Day Care School—operating at the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, under excellent personnel.

The families of these children pay school taxes, but until recently no schoolroom was provided for them. At last, a just cause has been recognized. Let's support and maintain it to our utmost.

Thank you again, Mr. Heller, for being a champion of such a fine and needy cause.

Sincerely yours,
VIOLA B. MOTT
(Mrs. Charles Mott)
